FREE GRASSY NARROWS

For thousands of years the forests, lakes and rivers of Ontario have sustained the indigenous community of Grassy Narrows. Today their future is under threat. Logging corporations Abitibi and Weyerhaeuser are converting endangered forests from Grassy Narrows' homeland into products such as newspaper, Xerox copy paper and Timberstrand/Trus Joist building materials. The unwelcome resource extraction has poisoned their waters with toxins, robbed the community of economic opportunities, and nearly destroyed their way of life.

Grassy Narrows do not consent to industrial logging on their territory. On December 2nd, 2002, Grassy Narrows youth lay down in the path of industrial logging machines – blocking access to their traditional homeland. Their action sparked the longest standing and highest profile indigenous logging blockade in Canadian history. But, three years later, logging is still taking place on remote sections of Grassy Narrows' land as the community does not have the resources to block all of the logging roads in their territory. They need your help. Support Grassy Narrows' struggle for self determination on their traditional lands.

We support the indigenous community of Grassy Narrows in their efforts towards self-determination on their traditional lands. We support Grassy Narrows' call to halt industrial logging and resource extraction on their traditional lands. The free, prior, and informed consent of indigenous communities must be obtained before any development occurs on their traditional lands. Sign the petition online: www.FreeGrassy.org

Name	Address (Street, State, Zip)	Affiliation	Email and phone

FREE GRASSY NARROWS

For thousands of years the forests, lakes and rivers of Ontario have sustained the indigenous community of Grassy Narrows. Today their future is under threat. Logging corporations Abitibi and Weyerhaeuser are converting endangered forests from Grassy Narrows' homeland into products such as newspaper, Xerox copy paper and Timberstrand/Trus Joist building materials. The unwelcome resource extraction has poisoned their waters with toxins, robbed the community of economic opportunities, and nearly destroyed their way of life.

Grassy Narrows do not consent to industrial logging on their territory. On December 2nd, 2002, Grassy Narrows youth lay down in the path of industrial logging machines – blocking access to their traditional homeland. Their action sparked the longest standing and highest profile indigenous logging blockade in Canadian history. But, three years later, logging is still taking place on remote sections of Grassy Narrows' land as the community does not have the resources to block all of the logging roads in their territory. They need your help. Support Grassy Narrows' struggle for self determination on their traditional lands.

We support the indigenous community of Grassy Narrows in their efforts towards self-determination on their traditional lands. We support Grassy Narrows' call to halt industrial logging and resource extraction on their traditional lands. The free, prior, and informed consent of indigenous communities must be obtained before any development occurs on their traditional lands. Sign the petition online: www.FreeGrassy.org

Name	Address (Street, State, Zip)	Affiliation	Email and phone